VERY SICK; TIME

Unforeseen Complication Most Feared and Physicians Are Holding President From Duties as Long as Possible.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.

WASHINGTON, Out. II.—President lison is atill a very sick man. En-uraging progress is noted in the off-id bulletins, but his condition remains such a serious character that nor clai bulletins, but his condition remains of such a serious character that none of those in attendance can pedict with certainty the time of his ultimate recovery. That the president is out of danger seems at this time assured, though an unforseen complication can always upset the best assurances in that regard with the president or any other patient similarly afflicted.

Much guessing as to the exact causes of the president's illness has been going on in different parts of the country, some based on hearsay, some based on hong distance diagnosis by physicians familiar with what occurs in cases of nervous breakdowns. Some of these guesses may yet prove right if the condition of the president takes a turn for these complications rather than their actual occurrence which has given rise to much of the speculation concerning the president's condition.

There seems to be a disposition to question the completeness of the official bulletins and from a medical viewpoint they have of course of not gone into the most intimate details. This has been no doubt due to the well-known

SEEK AUTHORITY TO HOLD GERMAN OPERA AFTER RIOT

NEW YORK. Det II.—Decision to whether the government has the right to suppress opera sung in German in New York until after the ratification by the United States of the peace treaty rested today with Corporation Counsel Burr, after riotous scenes last night when former service men tried unsuccessfully to prevent the presentation of The Meintersinger' at the Lexington theater, Mayor Hylan sought as opinion from Mr. Burr after reversing an earlier decision hanning the opera. Coincident with the mayor's move the management of the opera announced steps would be taken through the courts it necessary to assure the continued presentation of German opera. The management stated last night's program was in the nature of a concert and that the real opening of the German opera was opened, when it was evident the management intended to proceed man opera season was to be tonight. Mounted police and patrolmen with drawn night sticks battled last night with more than 300 men wearing army

Oritics Bring Change.

Public opinion has to some *ztent brought about a change, and yielding to criticism, the White House has meationed one or two miner aliments, though with the impression, too, that all the small complications were not in themselves the basic cause of his indisposition. The doctors still insist that their original diagnosis is correct—that nervous exhaustion is the central trouble though it is apparent that many of these irritating complications have been held back what other wise might have been a quicker recovery on the part of a patient with a case of nerves. held back what other wise might have been a quicker recovery on the part of a patient with a case of nerves.

From a medical viewpoint the possibilities of a cerebral hemorrhage by a patient stricken with nervous exhaustion are of course recognized. There are cases in which such a disturbance is serious and other in which it is slight and passes off very much as a temporary delirium in a patient suffering from any fever. It is not always possible to recognize the existence of a slight hemorrhage and the best information that seems obtainable is that if something like that has occurred it has been of such slights that character as not to leave a definite trace, and not to affect in the slightest the clarity of the president's mind.

It is perhaps because of an all too intense eagerness on the part of a small group of the president's opponents to spread an impression of incapacity that details are omitted which might tend to confirm such an impression and still are basically without significance at all. For example, for some time even before the president went to bed three weeks ago, life friends have observed occasionally a twitching of one of the muscles of his face. It was a symptom that helped to determine the necessarity for an absolute cancellation of work, but on the other hand reports have had it that Mr. Wilson suffered a paralysis of the entire face or lower jaw. The doctors have noted since an improvement in that symptom, in fact, a tendency for that to clear up, but would they be justified in issuing a apecific denial and then be met two or three days or weeks from now with a recurrence of the trouble in more intense form? It is perhaps because of an all too in recurrence of the trouble in more intense form?

Ordinarily a physician is not required to disclose all his fears and hopes and when the situation is complicated by the fact that certain courses of treatment are being prescribed by specialists and experts, each one of whom has his own ideas of what the future condition of the patient is going to be, it can well be imagined what a different task it is to issue a comprehensive bulletin stating everything about the case that the physicians themselves know. So the reports given out at the White House and signed by the attending doctors comprise general statements with an occasion inclusion of a symptom if it seems acute.

All this simply means that the president is still very sick, that his physicians—some of the beat specialists in the country—are adopting every resource known to medical science to bring the president tack to normal, but that their most vital need is time. Can they get enough of its They are going to keep Mr. Wilson from attending to public business just as long as they can, even if it takes several weeks. Just mye they say his mind is clear enough to transact public business.

ing to public business just as long as they can, even if it takes several weeks. Just now they say his mind is clear enough to traisact public fusiness. There are no doubts on that score on the part of any of the men in his acquaintaince who are in a position to know. But if he tackled business too early or too much of it, he might suffer a relapse and the physicians feel their professional reputations would suffer and the president. So they are holding Mr. Wilson apart from work as long as they can. If public opinion grows too impatient and practically compels Mr. Wilson to demonstrate that he is no possession of all his faculties, if the congress should attempt to raise the question of "nability" under the constitution. Mr. Wilson would no doubt be permitted by his physicians to see a few callers and transact some vital and pressing matters of business. The length of time the president is detached from public business depends therefore very largely on the patience of the American people themselves. (Copyright, 1919, by David Lawrence.)

Five Jurors Already Accepted Discharged Along With Special Venire.

The breakdown of the Frey criminal assault case Monday afternoon means that, when the trial is resumed, probably in two weeks, the selection of a jury will have to be started all over again.

Not only were the 185 special venjremen who qualified for examination Monday dismissed by Judge J. Ed Richards, because of objection by Raiph Davis, counsel for Frey, but the five men who already had been selected on the jury, also were discharged. The reason for this, Judge Richards stated, was that he felt it would be unjust to the five to keep them locked up for the period of time it will take the jury commissioners to get new names on the jury scroll, and the time it will take for Sheriff Perry and his deputies to serve jury notices on the venirement thus chosen.

The breakdown in the case occurred about 2:20 o'clock Monday afternoon, it followed an early adjournment of the morning session, when Raiph Davis challenged the entire special venire picked under the emergency clause to reput Monday morning. Mr. Davis ground for challenge was that the veniremen ware not selected from the body of the (city and) county, but instead came largely from Binghamton, Colleveille and Millington. Mr. Davis charged that Shariff Perry, one of the important witnesses against Frey, was an interested party to the prosecution, hostile to Frey, and that he had attempted to get a jury hostile to the defendant for that reason. Sam O. Bates, state's attorney, agreed to an early adjournment of the morning seasion, so that he might look into the law in the case.

In upholding Mr. Davis' challenge, Judge Richards decried the charge made against Sheriff Perry, whom he defended as an honest official. But there was no doubt as to the truth of Mr. Davis' statement that a majority of the veniremen, came from three communities in the county, and that few city men were haled into court.

Because the jury commissioners had no more names on their wheel, the judge went a step farther than Mr. Davis had asked, and dismissed the jurys had asked, and dismissed the jurys had asked, and dismissed the firm that lock it is not the record, when he argued that his client was not greeting a speedy trial, and demanded that the case be transferred to the Sec nires.

One peculiar feature to the dismissal of the five men already on the Frey jury, was the fact that the state of fered no objection to their discharge. It almost looked as though, after accepting some man or men on the jury, the state had become dissatisfied with its choice.

Valid the Frey case is awaiting a resetting, cases of lesser importance will be disposed of—particularly cases where the defendants are in juli, and unable to furnish bond.

POLICE GO TO CIRCUS; WILLIAMS CROWD SMALL

Monday night was circus night, and even the lure of speeches by George' A. Macon, Joe Hanover, P. W. Lanier and Joseph H. Norville, was not sufficient inducement to keep the policemon and other city employes who get free passes from going to the circus.

Consequently there were two small crowds at the two Williams railies. One was held at the intersection of Robeson and High, and the other at Boyd place and St. Paul avenue.

Wilhout the encouragement of the 200 or 360 city employes who follow the Williams meetings from place to place, the crowds that attend them would not look at all encouraging. The speakers felt the lack of the spontaneous applause which always comes from the appreciative policemen. They were not in good form. Mr. Williams spoke only a few minutes. He said the state ought to furnish free textbooks for the school children, that the city ought to have a system of public haths, and new streets should be opened running both morth and south and cast and west. He saided that he is proud of the record he has synde as a public official.

Pref. Macon, whose friends tried to get him on the Citizens' league ticket, but who, as a chronic officeseeker, did not come up to the specifications declared that some sinister political influence is behind the Citizens' league ticket, and therefore he opposed it. Other speakers followed his lead.

Col. W. L. Terry made the principal address in the Eleventh ward, and said he and his associates were fighting to break up casar rule in Memphis. Presumably Col. Terry, who is a young man, has not studied Mr. Williams' official record in J991, when he had a law passed giving the mayor of Memphis absolute control of the biring and firing of every city employe. Col. Terry is a good public speaker and he was given several sounds of applause.

The Williams forces have planned a general rally at Gaston park for Tue-day night, which will be held unless the threatened rain, prevents.

CONCRETE EVIDENCE OF HUN PLANS REVEALED

MEINICO CITY, Oct. 21.—Concrete evidence of German colonization plans for Mexico was revealed here with the announcement of an enterprise for the irrigation of 200,000 hectures of fand in the Fuerte river valley, in the state of Sinalea, where thousands of German emigrants are expected to buy small parcels of land on a 20-year payment plan.

parcels of land on a 20-year payment plan.

The corporation is being floated by Jose Meakany, a Mexico City capitalist, with the aupport of Gen. Ramon Rurbe, governor of Sinaloa. It is proposed to construct a dam at Saint Blas, securing from the government a concession for the use of enough water from the Fuerte river for the proposed colony. The land is declared to be extremely fertile and the plan is being backed by German banks here.

Memphis Flyer Brother of D. B. Puryear Former Judge First Criminal Court-First Prisoner to Escape Huns.

After having the distinction of being the first American soldier to escape through the German lines in the world war, suffering unspeakable hardships before he reached the American lines. First Lieut. George W. Furyear, Memphis aviator, was decreed by fate to meet his death in a plunge from an airplane but a few hundred feet from the ground.

Lieut. Puryear, brother of D. B. Puryear, former judge of the First divinion criminal court, was almost instantly killed at 2.38 o'clock Monday afternoon at Calexico, Cal., when a plane he was niloting crashed to earth from a distance of about 136 feet from the ground when the engine went dead.

Lieut. Puryear was en border patrol at the time of his fatal accident, flying from Calexico to the base of the squadron to which he was attached at San Diego, Cal. He had just taken off from the landing field at Celexico when the engine in the DeHaviland plane went dead when the machine was up about 206 feet. He was seen to maneuver the craft in an effort to valuated to the field again. His slittude, however, was too low and the craft turched, turned noise downward and plunged to earth, nose on.

With terrific force the Memphis fiyer was hurled against the edge of the cockpit, fracturing his skull. His left leg also was broken. He died five minutes after officers and men at the field had lifted him from the wreck of his machine.

field had lifted him from the wreck of his machine.

Immediately on receipt of the telegram announcing his brother's death Judge D. B. Puryear took charge of the funeral arrangements. The body will be forwarded from Rockwell field to Gallatin, Tenn.

The body will be shipped to the family home at that town for burial, passing through Memphis on the way the latter part of the week.

Lieut Puryear's experiences while in the hands of the Huns and his subsequent escape numbered among the most thrilling escapades experienced by any soldiers in the American expeditionary force. Having enlisted in Memphis in May, 1917, joining with Estes Armstrong and other companions the aviation school at North Memphis Driving park, he soon won distinction as a fiyer and was doing overseas duty by November of the same year.

Early the following year he was in the thick of the fighting, and on June 28, 1918, downed his first enemy plane after a terrific running combat, forcing his adversary to earth with his plane in flames.

his adversary to earth with his plane in flames.
Seeing his vanquished foe suffer so severely by the fall and thinking he was back of the American lines, Lieut. Puryear deavended, only to find himself surrounded and in the hands of the enemy. He was sent to a prison camp in Germany. On the night of Oct. 6, 1918, with 70 other Americans, Lieut. Puryear made his escape from the prison camp at Villingen only after several narrow escapes from death at the hunds of the guards.

Suffering many hardships, Lieut. Puryear, together with Harold Willis, of Boston, and Naval Lieut. Isaacs. of Virginia, reached the Rhine. Swimming that stream, the trio soon reached Switzerland and Lieut. Puryear eventually reloined his squadron.

After the armistice the gallant flyer returned immediately to the states and surprised his Memphis relatives by dropping in on them last Christmas.

Lieut. Puryear is survived by his mother, Mrs. W. P. Puryear, of Gallatin, Tenn., and six brothers. W. P. Puryear, of Gallatin, R. C. W. Puryear, of Hartsville: Alfred I. Puryear, on Nashington, Judge D. B. Puryear, of this city.

ALCORN'S BACK TAXES RUN UP TO $146,789

COBINTH, Miss., Oct. 21. (Spl.)—Closing his engagement here Saturday afternoon, G. C. Robertson, deputy state revenue agent, announces that he had signed up and adjusted in agreed amounts back taxes for Akorn county aggregating 116,782.

The list of claims as originally shown and sout out by mail covered a period of sky years and contained $25 names. Many of the claims were vacated for legitimate reasons developed by investigation, but taxes on the agreed amounts was paid at once on approximately $0 per cent of the claims.

The revenue agent stated that if all the counties in the state were as nearly full assessed as Alcorn county there would hardly be any necessity for the back tax adjustments.

Count di Cellere Dies at Hospital in Washington Previous to Operation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Count V. Maschi di Celere, Italian ambassador to the United States since 1913, died in the emergency hospital here last night just as he was about to undergo an operation. He had been ill since Saturday. Countess di Cellere and several members of the embassy staff were at the hospital when his death occurred. The ambassador was 13 years old.

The ambassador was 53 years old.

The ambassador was removed from the embassy to the hospital last night, after his physician had decided that only an operation would save his life. He reached the hospital at 9 o'clock and while on the operating table before the operation was started his death occurred at 9:40 o'clock. His death pronounced as due to mesenteric trombonsis.

curred at 2:40 o clock. His death pronounced as due to mesenteric trombonsis.

The ambassador, who, in point of service, was one of the oldest diplomatic representatives in Washington, leaves two children in addition to Countess di Cellere. The body was removed from the hospital to the embassy last night. Arrangements for funeral services here have not been made, but, according to diplomatic custom, the body will be taken to Italy aboard an American battleship.

Ambassador di Cellere was appointed to the post in 1913 to succeed Mayer Des Planches, at about the same time that Thomas Nelson Page was selected by President Wilson to represent the United States at Rome.

Ambassador di Cellere's friendship for President Wilson to represent the United States at Rome.

Ambassador di Cellere's friendship for President Wilson was especially well known in Washington, the ambassador having accompanied President and Mrs. Wilson to Paris the first time. The ambassador also accompanied the president and Mrs. Wilson during their visit to Italy.

It was expected that Ambassador di Cellere would soon leave for Italy, a successor, Baron Romano Avezzano, having been appointed in accordance with the diplomatic precedent that an ambassador who has served creditably during a war at the capital of an alled nation should be relieved when peace was re-established and be permitted to retire from the diplomatic service or to accept a higher poet in the home foreign office.

Ambassador di Cellere is known to have worked very hard of late in connection with the negotiations growing out of the Adriatic problem and the Flume situation. This coupled, with his approaching retirement, it was said by his friends tonight, may have affected his fleath. The cause of his death, his physician explained, was a blood clot in the mesentery.
